Econocom Spain announces partnership with Device42

Econocom, an international technology integrator that designs, finances and facilitates digital transformation for large companies and public organisations, consolidates its partnership with Device42 (collaborating since 2019).

The management of IT infrastructure is becoming increasingly complex: cloud and on-premise environments, microservices, containers, and multi-vendor environments are some examples of today's heterogeneity. To manage and operate these environments, new infrastructure solutions are required to provide visibility and clarity. With Device42, organizations get a comprehensive view of their entire IT estate. Device42 provides automatic, agentless infrastructure discovery across data center, cloud, and hybrid environments, making it the ideal solution to easily manage complex and changing environments.

"Device 42 is excited to partner with Econocom as part of their extensive IT product portfolio." said Raj Jalan, founder and CEO of Device 42. "Device 42 focuses on providing the best solution of Hybrid IT management and modernization. Econocom's reach, experience, customer relationship in Spain and the operations in which we have already collaborated make them an ideal partner."

"At Econocom we always look for unique solutions that are technically sound and can generate value for our customers", said Jorge Osorio Fernández, Business Development Manager at Econocom Spain. "Device42 provides that differentiation for our clients in managing the life cycle of their assets. We are very happy to have their support and continue developing a partnership that allows us to provide innovative solutions."
